(b) door signs to be applied directly to the door - renders these designs span the door width so the background need to be mirror depth

The width of the door is 880mm and I would like the black damask backing strip to span the width of the door. Part of the door sits behind the architrave with no space for depth of acrylic between the door and architrave. I had some digital prints made up to test and want to change the spec of these signs to be bonded directly to the door with as little depth as possible with no probability error. Using a mix of matte and gloss/ink vinyl could give the desired effect and create depth.

The lettering can be raised though not necessary and I am open to suggestions of how these signs could be made up.
